

KORE.AI COMPETITIVE INTELLIGENCE

Competitive Signal Report

Topic: Enterprise agentic AI & contact-center AI (CCAI) · Window: last 72h · Saturday, 05 September 2026 · 22:14 IST
Prepared by Kore.ai Competitive Intelligence

Bottom line: Competitors are aggressively pushing AI agent capabilities, with a focus on integration and expanding use cases. Genesys's acquisition of LivePerson signals a move towards consolidating omnichannel AI capabilities, while Salesforce and ServiceNow continue to emphasize their platform-centric approach to agentic AI. Kore.ai's strength in true omnichannel and its proven ABL framework remain key differentiators against these evolving strategies.

WHAT MATTERS THIS RUN

Three signals that matter

Genesys consolidates omnichannel AI with LivePerson acquisition

WHAT HAPPENED
(2026-09-05) Genesys has acquired LivePerson for $304M, betting on omnichannel agentic AI and integrating it into its OASYS AI stack. Tech Times WHAT IT MEANS FOR KORE.AI
This acquisition highlights the market trend towards consolidating AI capabilities within existing platforms. Kore.ai's established, unified omnichannel platform and ABL framework provide a distinct advantage over bolt-on solutions, offering greater reliability and a more predictable TCO.

Salesforce expands Agentforce credits to drive adoption

WHAT HAPPENED
(2026-09-04) Salesforce is offering more Agentforce credits to encourage wider adoption of its agentic platform. CIO.COM WHAT IT MEANS FOR KORE.AI
Competitors are resorting to incentives to drive adoption, indicating potential challenges in demonstrating immediate ROI or overcoming platform complexity. Kore.ai's focus on compile-time validation and clear cost attribution through ABL offers a more transparent and value-driven approach, avoiding the need for credit-based incentives.

ServiceNow partners with Experian for AI agents

WHAT HAPPENED
(2026-09-04) Experian is expanding into AI agents through a partnership with ServiceNow. SiliconANGLE WHAT IT MEANS FOR KORE.AI
This partnership underscores the trend of established players leveraging their platforms to integrate AI agent capabilities. Kore.ai's pure-play, AI-native platform and its broad integration capabilities provide a more agile and comprehensive solution compared to platform-specific partnerships that may lead to vendor lock-in.

AT A GLANCE

Signal priority table

Competitor	Move (dated)	Threat	Kore.ai counter
Genesys	(2026-09-05) Acquires LivePerson for $304M to bolster omnichannel AI — Tech Times	High	Proven unified omnichannel platform vs. bolt-on
Salesforce	(2026-09-04) Offers more Agentforce credits to drive adoption — cio.com	Med	Transparent cost attribution vs. credit anxiety
ServiceNow	(2026-09-04) Partners with Experian for AI agents — SiliconANGLE	Med	Pure-play, AI-native platform vs. platform-specific partnerships
Agentforce (Salesforce)	(2026-09-04) Smarsh scales Agentforce following support deflection success — FF News	Low	Compile-time validation vs. post-build issues
Genesys	(2026-09-03) Banks on AI customer service agents and their orchestration — TechTarget	Low	Proven ABL framework for deterministic orchestration vs. evolving AI agent capabilities

ON THE RADAR

Watch for

- Continued integration of LivePerson's capabilities into Genesys's broader platform.
- Further announcements from Salesforce regarding Agentforce pricing and adoption initiatives.
- ServiceNow's continued expansion of its agentic AI capabilities across various enterprise functions.

SO WHAT — DO THIS NOW

Recommended actions

- Emphasize Kore.ai's unified, true omnichannel platform in all customer conversations, contrasting it with acquisitions and bolt-on solutions.
- Highlight the predictability and transparency of Kore.ai's ABL framework for cost and performance, countering competitor pricing uncertainties and credit-based models.
- Reinforce Kore.ai's leadership in independent analyst evaluations for Conversational AI for Customer Service, particularly against platform vendors with strong but separate analyst placements.
- Arm sales with specific talking points on how Kore.ai's compile-time validation prevents production issues, a key differentiator against less mature agent-building approaches.

EVIDENCE TRAIL

Sources

- (2026-09-05) Tech Times

- (2026-09-04) cio.com
- (2026-09-04) SiliconANGLE
- (2026-09-04) FF News
- (2026-09-03) TechTarget