Prepared by Kore.ai Competitive Intelligence

Bottom line: ServiceNow is aggressively expanding its agentic AI footprint through acquisitions, partnerships, and ambitious revenue targets, signaling a strong push into enterprise AI that Kore.ai must counter with its specialized CX focus and proven governance.

WHAT MATTERS THIS RUN

Three signals that matter

ServiceNow's Aggressive AI Expansion

WHAT HAPPENED
(2026-07-04) ServiceNow announced an AI revenue target of $1.5B as a large investor builds a stake, following its (2026-07-02) acquisition of ai.work and a new partnership with Accenture to launch AI-powered services for agentic AI shifts AD HOC NEWS, CTech, and WebWire. WHAT IT MEANS FOR KORE.AI
ServiceNow's aggressive M&A and partnerships signal a broad enterprise AI play, but Kore.ai can highlight its purpose-built CX focus and analyst-validated leadership in conversational AI, contrasting with ServiceNow's ITSM heritage and "assists" consumption model unpredictability.

ServiceNow's Pervasive AI Deployment

WHAT HAPPENED
(2026-07-02) ServiceNow announced the deployment of AI across every major business function, urging enterprise leaders to evaluate before following suit MarketScale. WHAT IT MEANS FOR KORE.AI
While ServiceNow pushes broad AI adoption, Kore.ai can emphasize its deep, specialized agentic AI platform for CX, offering compile-time validation and deterministic execution crucial for high-stakes customer interactions, unlike a generic "every function" approach.

Cresta's Vision for Synthetic Customers

WHAT HAPPENED
(2026-07-02) Cresta's CMO discussed the "Unified AI Workforce" and positioned "Synthetic Customers" as the next big thing, highlighting their strategy for AI in CX CX Today. WHAT IT MEANS FOR KORE.AI
Cresta's focus on synthetic customers for testing aligns with its conversation-data moat, but Kore.ai can counter by emphasizing its ABL's compile-time validation and Git-native release engineering for robust, deterministic agent development, reducing reliance on post-build testing.

ON THE RADAR

Watch for

SO WHAT — DO THIS NOW

Recommended actions

- Arm sales with battlecards emphasizing Kore.ai's specialized CX focus, analyst-validated leadership, and predictable TCO against ServiceNow's broad enterprise AI and consumption-based pricing.
- Product Marketing should highlight ABL's compile-time validation and deterministic execution as a superior, more reliable approach for critical CX flows compared to prompt-plus-code or heavy reliance on post-build testing (Cresta).
- Analyst Relations should proactively brief Gartner and Forrester on Kore.ai's differentiated governance and full-lifecycle platform breadth, reinforcing its leadership in the CX-specific conversational AI category.
- Develop messaging that positions Kore.ai as the "enterprise-grade, AI-native agentic platform" built for CX, contrasting with horizontal platforms like ServiceNow that are adapting their ITSM heritage.
