

KORE.AI COMPETITIVE INTELLIGENCE

Competitive Signal Report

Topic: Enterprise agentic AI & contact-center AI (CCAI) · Window: last 72h · Monday, 03 August 2026 · 11:15 IST
Prepared by Kore.ai Competitive Intelligence

Bottom line: Competitors are pushing forward with AI agent capabilities, but significant gaps remain in enterprise-grade governance, true omnichannel support, and predictable cost models. Kore.ai's ABL and analyst validation continue to be key differentiators against both CCaaS incumbents and emerging AI-native players.

ServiceNow Unifies Agentic AI Under "Otto" Brand

WHAT HAPPENED
ServiceNow announced the unification of its AI agent capabilities under the new "Otto" brand, aiming to consolidate its AI offerings for both employee and customer-facing workflows. (2026-08-02) AD HOC NEWS

WHAT IT MEANS FOR KORE.AI
This consolidation highlights ServiceNow's push for a unified agentic platform, but its ITSM-centric origins and reliance on third-party voice solutions present an opportunity. Kore.ai's true omnichannel voice and digital capabilities, coupled with our robust ABL for deterministic CX workflows, remain a superior alternative for customer-facing automation.

Salesforce Agentforce Claims Rapid ARR Growth Amidst Pricing Uncertainty

WHAT HAPPENED
Salesforce reported significant year-over-year ARR growth for Agentforce, exceeding $1.2 billion, driven by a large number of deals closed. (2026-08-01) Salesforce WHAT IT MEANS FOR KORE.AI

The rapid ARR growth for Agentforce underscores the market demand for agentic AI, but the persistent pricing confusion is a clear opening. Kore.ai's transparent, outcome-based pricing and our ABL's compile-time validation offer a predictable and reliable alternative to Salesforce's complex and evolving credit system, especially for regulated industries.

PolyAI and Sierra Highlight Focus on Voice and AI Agent Innovation

WHAT HAPPENED
PolyAI is emphasizing its "Audio-Native, TTS-Optional" architecture, positioning itself for voice-first customer service automation. Concurrently, Sierra is expanding its AI agent capabilities beyond support into specific verticals like insurance and healthcare. (2026-07-31) Tech Times and (2026-07-31) TechCrunch WHAT IT MEANS FOR KORE.AI

While PolyAI focuses on voice-first, Kore.ai's true omnichannel platform offers a more comprehensive solution. Sierra's expansion into regulated industries highlights the critical need for deterministic AI, an area where Kore.ai's ABL excels, providing auditability and governance that pure LLM-based agents struggle to match.

AT A GLANCE

ON THE RADAR

Watch for

- Continued integration of Moveworks into ServiceNow's broader agentic platform and its impact on their CX strategy.
- Further clarity or shifts in Salesforce's Agentforce pricing models as adoption scales.
- Any moves by PolyAI or Sierra to address true omnichannel capabilities or expand into non-voice channels.

SO WHAT — DO THIS NOW

Recommended actions

- Reinforce Kore.ai's messaging around true omnichannel capabilities versus voice-first or ITSM-centric approaches.
- Highlight the predictable TCO and compile-time validation of ABL as a direct counter to Salesforce's pricing uncertainties and LLM-based agent risks.
- Leverage analyst validation (Gartner, Forrester) to underscore Kore.ai's leadership in CX-specific conversational AI, contrasting with competitors' narrower focus or missing evaluations.
- Arm Sales with specific questions to probe prospects on their needs for deterministic AI in regulated workflows, where Kore.ai's ABL provides a distinct advantage.
- Monitor ServiceNow's "Otto" branding and integration progress for any significant shifts in their CX agent strategy.
